This is the first design lesson (1999 - 1 year before I move to Japan) in the University of Architecture of Hochiminh City when I was back in Vietnam.

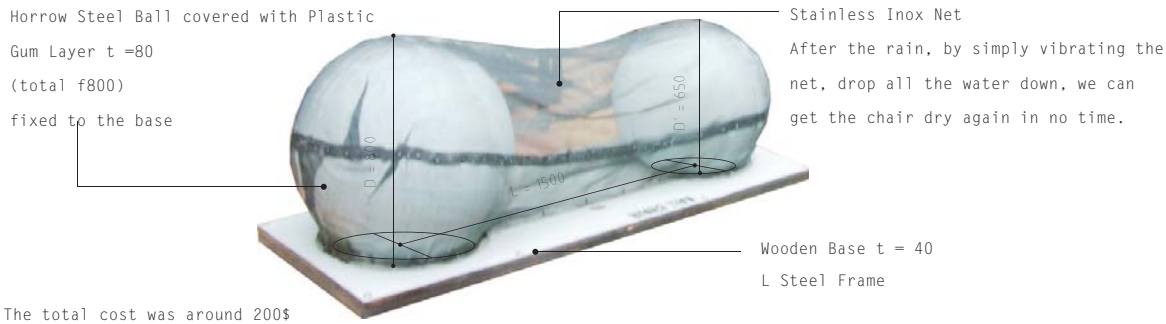

Street Furniture - Student Exhibition, Tokyo Designer's week 2004

Tokyo Designer's Week (TDW) is a design-event held annually for both professional designers and students not only in Japan but also all over the world.
 "...19 years have passed since the movement of Tokyo Designer's Week started. It is being reborn as a design movement aiming to develop design business, create design culture and foster young design talents..." (Toshiyuki Kita - Nonprofit Organization Tokyo Designer's Week)

The idea is to create a comfortable furniture in public. Although it is made of stainless steel and plastic gum which are very strong to the outdoor conditions, it still does not lose its softness and comfort of a sofa. This item can be used in Public Places such as Parks, Streets or Bus Stops
